Tabilo x GARTHMYL HALL

Inspiration. One simple word but with so many connotations. How do we inspire our customers to see in our furniture what we at Tabilo see? To see all the possibilities our furniture can provide, its ability to meet any customers requirements, to fit any theme. We know our products potential, but how can we help prospective customers see that potential too? This is where Garthmyl hall comes into the equation. A grade two listed Georgian country house in Mid Wales that has been converted into an extremely popular wedding venue, Garthmyl Hall offered Tabilo multiple canvases, a multitude of rooms and spaces with widely varying decors and features. Our brief – to turn these spaces into different styles of hospitality venue with the use of a simple range of very basic props, and of course our furniture.

The Family Friendly Restaurant and Bar

THE GENTLEMAN'S BAR

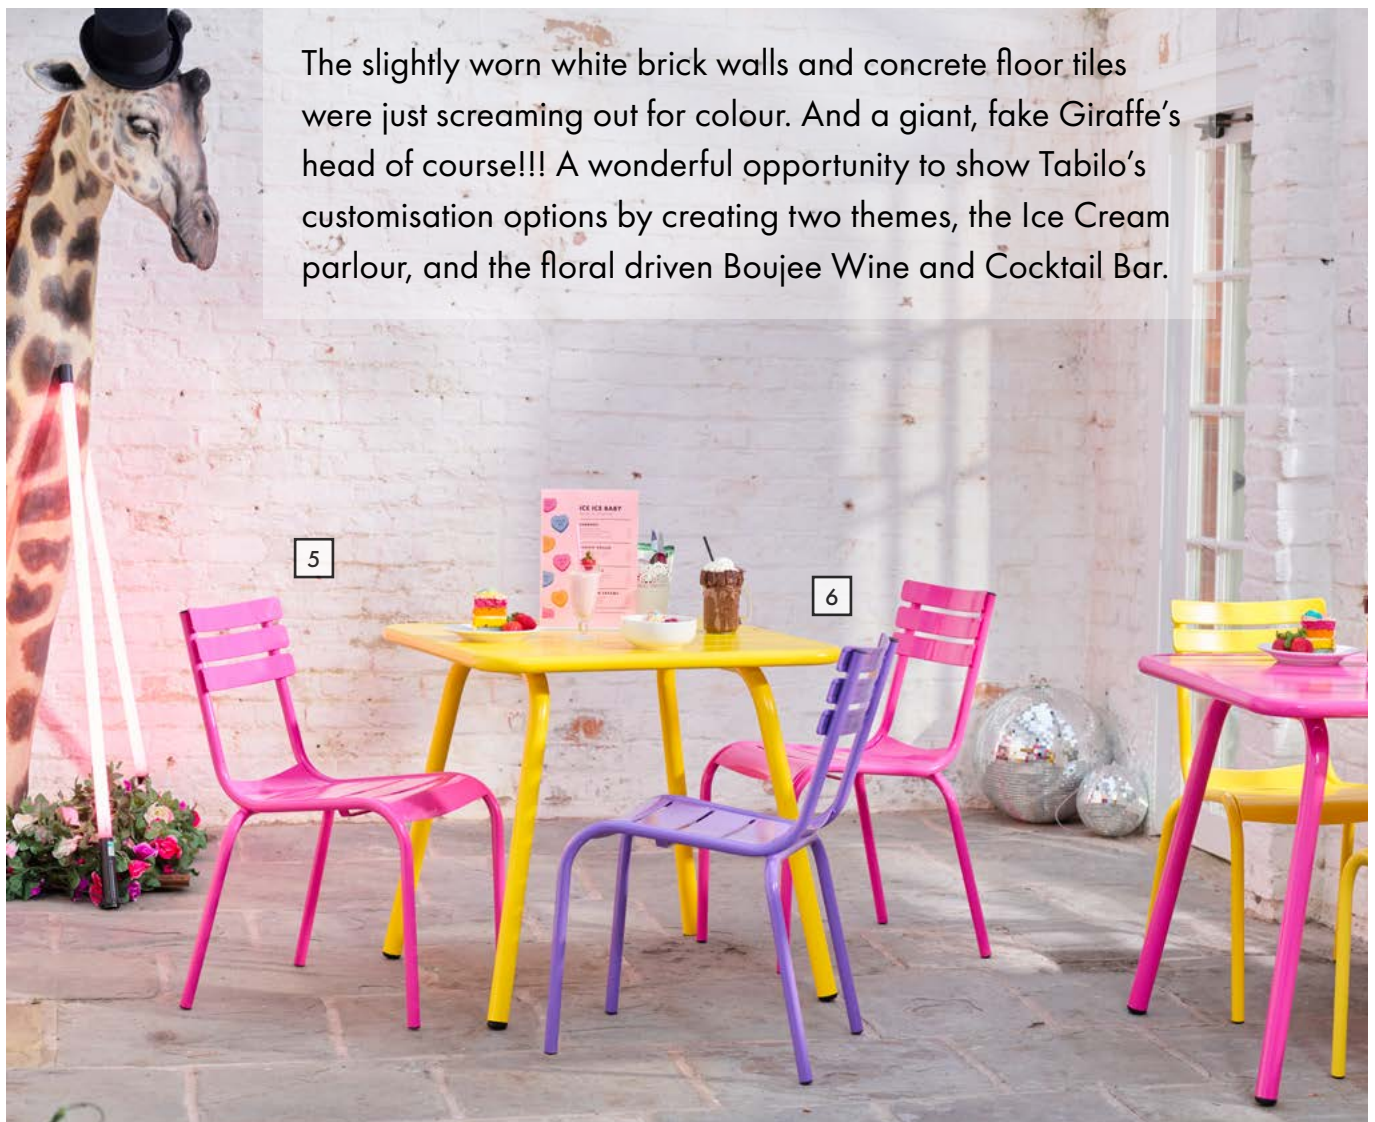

With its clean, modern features, neutral tones, and the variety of on trend beverages beautifully displayed, we wanted to use this room to create our own Family Friendly, chain style Bar and Restaurant.

A wonderful opportunity to show Tabilo's customisation options by creating two themes, the Ice Cream parlour, and the floral driven Boujee Wine and Cocktail Bar.

THE MARQUEE

Attached to the Ballroom and accessed by three very large French doors, the Marquee offered a wonderfully light and airy space in which to present our outdoor suitable furniture. The Madrid flip-top tables, with their industrial stylings, flip up to allow stacking together for space saving requirements, and are wonderfully complimented here by the Rio side and bar chairs, and the Werzalit tabletops, all of which are suitable for outdoor use.

A wonderfully dark and moody space, with its low arched ceilings, original stone floors and exposed brick walls, The Cellar bar offered a wonderfully quirky canvas. The larger of the two rooms, adorned with leather Chesterfields and Gramophones (as well as fluorescent light tubes) immediately took us on a journey back to prohibition era. And the bar, with its industrial lighting and art deco stylings was perfect to present some very modern coffee house style sets.

THE CELLAR BAR

In addition to being a glimpse into Garthmyl Hall's past, the exposed brick and concrete floors provide a very modern and on trend setting. More and more Restaurants, Café's and Bars on high streets all over the UK are embracing characteristics of old buildings and basing entire themes and in some cases brands around the vibe these characteristics create. With these shots we let these beautiful features do the talking.

THE SUMMER HOUSE BAR

A trend amongst fast food establishments, the white walls and natural tones offer establishments a canvas that they can bring to life with their own brand colours and themes. Imagine the white brick walls of The Summer House Bar adorned with pop culture references, phrases or logos made from neon lighting, newspaper clippings or old photographs to set a sense of history, all methods employed throughout high streets across the UK. Here we show that our products can help complete these design requirements. Simple yet striking colours, complemented by generic fast food props, you can almost taste your favourite Burger and Fries as you look at the pictures.

All items shown are suitable for use both indoors and outdoors. They are extremely durable, easy to clean, and stackable, making them the ultimate solution to popular, busy venues where speed is of the essence and space is a commodity.

Why Powder Coating?

Powder coating is widely recognised within the manufacturing industry as a service that provides a durable, corrosion resistant, high quality metal finish. It ensures such quality by applying an electrostatic charge to the powder that is then fused to the surface (cured) at approximately 200°C in a temperature-controlled oven.

The advantages of powder coating over liquid finishes include:

- Corrosion resistance
- A uniform quality finish without paint runs
- Complete coverage even on more complex components
- High level of colour retention
- Fast and efficient turnaround
- Environmentally friendly
- Energy and material efficient
- High resistance to abrasion, acidity, etc
- High-cost efficiency

How do I order?

Contact our amazing team of commercial furniture experts today to discuss all your requirements and begin your Powder Coating customisation journey. With so many options to choose from our team will guide you to the right option to meet your exact requirements.
